From the desk of our Respected Principal Ma'am ...

One of the best ways to stay positive is to believe in and help others. The Pygmalion Effect is when a belief in another person's potential brings that potential to life. Believing in others motivates them to live up to those expectations. This effect is mostly seen within the walls of a classroom.

Another principle to remember is the ability to fall up, or the ability to create a path away from failure during hard times. Having this ability separates people who are crippled by failure and those who rise above it. Thinking of failure as an opportunity for growth will greatly influence people's grades and mental health when times become difficult.

With all that is happening in the world right now, whether it is the pandemic or bad weather, remembering the health benefits and principles of happiness are some of the most valuable skills during this time.

"Keep your face always towards the sunshine – and shadows will fall behind you."

-Dr. Gurmeet Kaur Arjani
