KHALSA MODEL SENIOR SECONDARY SCHOOL

E-BULLETIN (SENIOR SECTION)

JULY, 2024

From the Desk of our Respected Principal Ma'am,

Nature and SDGs

People's connection to nature is an important factor that has a direct influence on health and environmental behaviour. In the present time, where people spend more and more time separated from nature on the one hand and environmental problems increase massively on the other hand, the promotion of connection to nature can make an important contribution to the sustainable development of society.

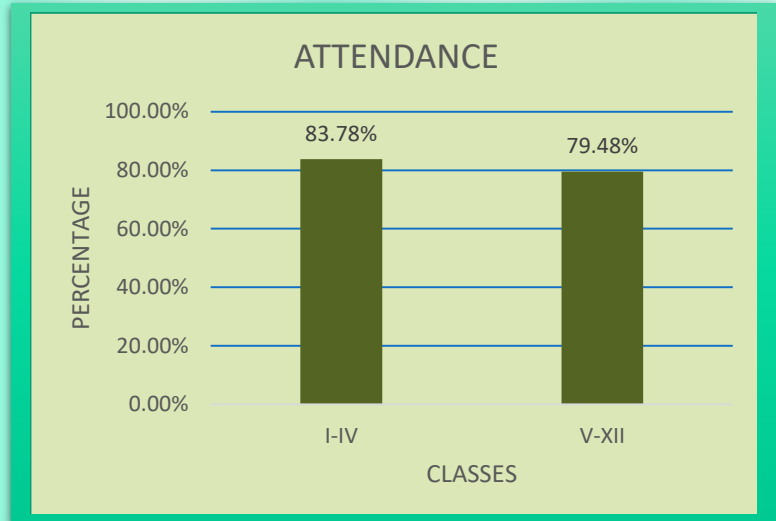

Considering that the future of the planet lies in the hands of children and their actions, at Khalsa such connectedness is practised by providing children opportunities to care of nature that support a sense of respect for nature and developing empathy. It also creates opportunities for children to work together. Experiences such as these help build lifelong skills and give children a connection that may in the future support caring for their environment, as well as each other.

As we look towards a greener future, it's essential that schools play their part in creating a sustainable society. By teaching students about sustainability, promoting sustainable practices, and creating sustainable schools, we can inspire the next generation to take action towards a greener, more sustainable future.
